Appendix A:

There will be a dedication to Nanette Salomon at the opening reception for The Waking Dreams of Phantasmata Traumata on Thurs March 28, 4:30-6:30PM. This exhibition is a group show of contemporary art—painting, sculpture, moving image, and otherworldly elements. Along with work by various widely known contemporary artists, such as Nancy Bowen, Hilma's Ghost, and Susan Bee, it also includes recent collages by emeritus faculty (and former Dean) Francisco Soto and Lecture in Sociology and Anthropology, Christopher Santiago.

Nanette Salomon

March 5, 1946 – May 23, 2023

Dr. Salomon received her PhD from the Institute of Fine Arts of NYU in 1984, “Dreamers, Idlers and Other Dozers: Aspects of Sleep in Dutch Art.” She published on a wide variety of periods and subjects, most consistently seventeenth-century Dutch genre painting and the historiography of art history. Feminism as a methodology and politics informed everything she did. She published two monographic books, Shifting Priorities: Gender and Genre in Dutch Painting of the Seventeenth Century (Stanford University Press, 2004) and Jacob Duck and the Gentrification of Dutch Genre Painting (Davaco Press, 1998). Dr. Salomon's article, “The Art Historical Canon; Sins of Omissions,” first published in 1990 was reprinted in Donald Preziosi's The Art of Art History, Oxford University Press, and has been translated into German and Chinese. While researching her dissertation in London in the 1970s, Dr. Salomon became a member of the first all-female photography collective in the UK, The Hackney Flashers. She taught at the College of Staten Island for more than 30 years and she was gallery curator for 15 of those. Nanette is remembered for her enthusiasm for telephone conversations and her wicked laugh.

Appendix B: FGL Statement Resolution

Whereas EVC Wendy Hensel sent out a memo to administrators on January 25, 2024 that suggested various actions to close the budget gap that did not sufficiently engage faculty governance;

And whereas the Faculty Governance Leaders of CUNY wrote a statement pointing out the need for administration to work with faculty governance in a collaborative manner;

Therefore, be it resolved that the Faculty Senate of the College of Staten Island endorses the sentiments in the FGL Statement.
