

Volunteer Opportunity: IACUC Community Representative

The Institutional Animal Care and Use Committee (IACUC) at the College of Staten Island (CSI) is seeking a dedicated community representative to join our volunteer team. This important role involves providing a community perspective in overseeing the animal research enterprise at CSI. The ideal candidate will serve as a voice for the community and is not affiliated with the institution in any form.

Position Responsibilities: As a community representative on the IACUC committee, you will be responsible for attending at least two meetings annually (either in person or via Zoom) and actively participating in discussions. You will receive and review emails sent to the committee, with the opportunity to comment on any protocols or raise concerns as needed. Your role includes listening to committee discussions and contributing insights when appropriate to ensure community perspectives are heard in the oversight of animal research.

Honorarium:

- $250 stipend for participation at the end of the year of service.

How to Apply:

- Interested candidates should submit a resume to IRB-IACUC@csi.cuny.edu, with “Non-Affiliated Community Member application” in the subject line.

Deadline for submission:

- Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Apply as soon as possible to be considered.

For more information or to express interest, please contact us at the email address above.